How the League Began

On February 2, 1926, twenty-two women who were motivated to improve the community met to form a new organization. In just a month, the Tampa Junior League began. Initially, the League consisted of 100 young ladies to their first board of directors. First on the agenda was the adoption of a constitution, with Mrs. John Parrott as its first president. The League quickly became active in the community, hosting events and fundraisers. By the end of the first year, the women of the League had volunteered 1,800 hours for welfare services and raised $1,800 from a charity ball. They also held a successful Community Chest Drive.

Exploring Our Past

TANYA EGGER

There’s a saying, “Don’t dwell on the past.” The truth is, an organization’s history is one of the most important aspects of shaping its future.

To find out where The Junior League of Tampa is heading, all you have to do is open up an issue of The Sandspur from the past.

December, 1950—

“At the present time The Junior League of Tampa has 183 Actives and Provisionals working under Placement. Whether her job is for an agency, or an organization’s board, or is confined to a League activity, each Leaguer is working for a better community.” From the women who began The Junior League of Tampa 68 years ago to the women who currently make up our organization, we have always had a shared vision. We continue our commitment to women and children in Tampa and Hillsborough County.

I wonder if the 22 women who began The Junior League of Tampa in 1926 ever envisioned how much impact this organization would have today.

We are now 1,800 women strong. Our volunteers have amassed more than 60,000 service hours a year and through our projects, we invest more than $260,000 a year in the Tampa Bay community.

When we face the challenges of present day, we should look to our founding members for encouragement and inspiration. I imagine it wasn’t easy for them to begin this organization. In the late 20’s, men were active in many community groups including Kiwanis and church groups. Women who participated in community organizations generally had only a limited role. The founding members of The Junior League of Tampa and the members who followed them could be considered trailblazers; at the very least; we know they were strong women dedicated to changing the lives of children and women in their community for the better and we proudly continue their legacy today.

Our history is what ties the members of The Junior League together. This year, The Sandspur committee will take you back in time. Through the next four issues, we will show you where we have come from as a League and where we are heading. In this edition we are “Sharing Our Story,” taking a look at where it all started and introducing you to the women who laid the groundwork. We’ll show you the history of our fundraisers through the years and highlight some of our Sustainers who paved the way for the rest of the members. For The Junior League of Tampa, we celebrate our past, embrace the present, and look to our future.

LETTERS TO THE LEAGUE

Dear Junior League of Tampa,

When you chose, Camp Lookalike Lane for your community event, you knew to make a difference in the lives of 10 special young girls. Your gift helped transform their first hope and taught them coping skills that will help them now and throughout the rest of their lives.

We were thrilled to hear that JLT members helped create a sanctuary in your garden and hope she is able to share her first hand experience with the group. Thank you so much for helping our children learn on the stages of peace to live girls!

Sincerely yours,

BEHIND THE BALUSTRADES

LYNETTE RUSSELL
President
Active Since 2001

"The Junior League is a continuing process. Like the limestone foundation upon which our city is built, the foundation of the Tampa League are firm, built layer upon layer through the years. The careful planning of the years gone by is evident in our present. The careful planning of our present will be evident in the future."

— Frances Skemp, President 1959-1960

We train leaders. We serve our community. We transform lives.

This is what The Junior League of Tampa has been doing since its founding in 1926. As we Share our Story this year, I hope you will see the lasting impact our volunteers have made in the Tampa Bay area. From our past and current projects to civic and community leaders, the League has been and continues to be a catalyst for change.

The Junior League of Tampa’s legacy is based upon individual development and collective accomplishment. The contribution our organization makes to our community includes both training our members in the management and leadership skills needed to be effective volunteers and providing hands-on community service opportunities. The result of this remarkable combination is seen in the enduring impact in the Tampa Bay area that has helped improve the lives of women and children for over eight decades.

Throughout our history, the League has worked to identify unmet needs and address these critical issues in the community. We have forged over 300 partnerships to enact change. We have supported or been instrumental in creating over 30 charitable organizations throughout Tampa, including the MacDonald Training Center featured in this issue. Additionally, the League has benefited over 175 local organizations with our Enabling Fund Grants and Community Action Projects, impacting thousands.

As I think about the accomplishments of this amazing organization, I stand in awe of our rich past and I am motivated to continue the tradition of dedicated service. My own story did not start with a desire to be President but grew organically with each passing year. As I learned more about our community and the League, I quickly realized the more I gave to the League, the more I received in return. From the tangible items like specific skills, mentors and lifelong friendships, to the intangible items like the strong desire to make Tampa the best place to live for disadvantaged women and children.

As we reflect on our history, we owe a debt of gratitude to those League members who came before us, for it is through their example that today’s members find inspiration to serve the community in momentous ways. Thank you for giving your time, talent, and treasure to the League and to our community. By staying true to our Mission, The Junior League of Tampa stands at the forefront of lasting and positive change in our community. I invite you to Share our Story.

Lynette Russell
President
As the days begin to shorten and autumn approaches, The Junior League of Tampa Vice President of Finance, Denise Schultz, along with the Holiday Gift Market and JLT Marketplace committees are busy collaborating, planning and preparing for the annual Holiday Gift Market fundraising event to be held November 7-9 at the Florida State Fairgrounds. Having served on both of these committees, I understand the dedication needed by committee members during this time.

Fundraising has always been an important part of the success of The Junior League of Tampa, allowing us to impact more women and children in our community.

Finance VP Denise Schultz says it’s enlightening to see the efforts made over the years to raise funds that directly impact our partner programs. It is always a formidable task to take on a new fundraiser. From a gala to introduce the new Provisionals in 1950 which netted a profit of $284.96, to a charity ball described in a 1951 The Sandspur as “perfect in every detail,” League fundraisers have always proven to be an occasion not to be missed.

Through the years, League fundraisers evolved as community needs increased. Members initially managed the Thrift Store that offered shoppers gently used merchandise at bargain prices. Today, the Holiday Gift Market is an expansive shoppers paradise.

“We had more than 13,000 people walk through the door last year at Holiday Gift Market and the committee this year is working hard to meet and exceed the target amount of people,” Denise explained.

One of the League’s newest fundraisers is the Gasparilla Invasion Party, held at JLT Headquarters during the annual Gasparilla Pirate Invasion. The League’s location offers prime viewing of the flotilla, and provides a short walk to watch the parade and enjoy the rest of the festivities. This family-friendly event, which started two years ago, offers activities for both kids and adults. “Last year, the event sold out and there are discussions on how to expand the event this year,” Denise added.

The League is also launching another fundraising event, The Luminaries, this spring. It is an annual awards program honoring Tampa’s most influential citizens who exemplify leadership, community commitment, empowerment, and advocacy. This new event is an exciting way to not only highlight Tampa’s growth as a city, but also help raise awareness of the League’s mission and fundraising contributions within the community.

“The growth in the fundraisers over the years is extremely impressive,” said Denise. “The largest change is the expansion of every type of fundraiser we do and it’s exciting to see the growth and how League members and the community support every single one.”
The nine women who comprise the 2014-2015 Executive Board are a dynamic group who have given their time and offered their vision to ensure The Junior League of Tampa continues a legacy of excellence. They are tireless champions for the women and children in our community. As a group, they inspire others to reach their potential through innovative projects and effective training. Take a moment to meet the women who are leading the charge.

Inspired by the women who blazed the trail before her, 2014-2015 President Lynette Russell is ready to continue the League’s history of being a catalyst for change within our community. “Caring, loyal and high energy,” best describes Lynette who realized early on in her League career that participating in Willingness to Lead gave her more opportunities to grow and become involved in committees she had a strong passion to lead. During her year as Placement Chair, the League implemented the Placement Mentor program, empowering the women to get to know each committee member, offering guidance and celebrating special moments. A graduate of Florida State University, Lynette worked for 12 years as an Account Executive with Tenet Health Care, but her most rewarding job has been a mom to her three active children, Cole, Quinlan, and Camden and wife to husband, Rick. Lynette is thrilled to lead the Executive Board through this exciting time overseeing the development of the new leadership structure to enhance our efficacy as an organization and offer more leadership opportunities to our members.

President
LYNETTE RUSSELL

Stacy Carlson is approaching this next year as President-Elect with tremendous hope and enthusiasm. With a new project, The Luminaries, in development and exciting expanded leadership opportunities for League members being explored, she sees great opportunity for connecting more people internally and externally to the League’s mission. As we approach JLT’s 90th anniversary year, she considers this a perfect time to reflect on how all League members, Provisionals, Actives and Sustainers, are taking the skills gained in the League to further civic and community leadership. Working as Vice President and Program Director Florida Transition Years for Helios Education Foundation is another place where she uses her skills gained in JLT to build partnerships to further postsecondary education access particularly for underserved, low income students. Stacy will tell you that her own children, Trey, Jacob, and Jon Luke are who inspires her commitment to improving the community. She believes that all children, regardless of zip code, deserve the opportunity to reach their fullest potential and she is proud of the role the League plays in helping children down that path.

President-Elect
STACY CARLSON

2014-2015 Communications Vice President Danielle Post never sought out leadership positions initially, but it was the persistent recruitment by her mentors that sent her in that direction. Danielle now feels extremely lucky and grateful to be among an amazing group of women who are leading the League through a time of growth in fund development, communications, community leadership, state and local advocacy, membership, training and our new governance structure. Danielle looks to the League’s history to provide a map to the future. She believes the women who came before us and the past challenges in our organization enable us to continue moving forward. Empowered by the ability to change the lives of foster children, Danielle’s most memorable placement was her time with Kids Connect helping foster children find forever families. As an Active since 2006, Danielle encourages new members to “Get involved. Try something new. Go outside of your comfort zone.” When she’s not cheering on a League committee, Danielle can be found cheering on her 10-year-old son, Jack, at the baseball field.

Communications VP
DANIELLE POST
2014-2015 Finance Vice President Denise Schultz believes there is a great deal we can learn from our Sustainers, including the effects the League has had on the community over the years. An Active since 2005, Denise started taking on leadership roles in her Provisional year in San Francisco. She is thrilled to once again be working with the talented women on the Executive Board. Every placement, including her time on Kids in the Kitchen and Cookbook (now JLT Marketplace), has been a challenge to see what could be accomplished. She even found herself completing cooking demos on TV, which is quite an achievement since Denise doesn't cook. She has her undergraduate degree in Marketing from the University of South Florida and her MBA from Webster University. She works for JP Morgan as a Vice President Business Control Manager for Global Trade and is often described as adventurous, honest, and loyal.

Our 2014-2015 Community Vice President Casey Carefoot has a knack for helping provisionals find their way in the League. It was as a provisional mentor that Casey built her own leadership skills and first realized she wanted to take on a leadership role in the organization. An active since 2008, Casey is amazed at the League’s incredible history of serving underprivileged children in the Tampa Bay community. She points to our Sustainers as the trailblazers who established programs decades ago, which are still running and helping the community today. She spends her day as a Recruiting Manager for Catapult Systems but this funny, energetic, friend to all, loves to spend her free time at the beach or hanging out with family and friends. Casey credits her mom and dad for teaching her what it means to have a commitment and the importance of making good decisions for the long term.

Foster children will always hold a special place in the heart of Nicole Hubbard, 2014-2015 Fund Development Vice President. As the first chair of Birthday Buddies, Nicole found she has a true passion for foster care and child welfare. She became active in 2006 and after stepping into the role of Asst. Merchant Coordinator for Holiday Gift Market, she knew she would take a leadership track in the League. As a proud graduate of Florida State University Nicole loves to cheer on her Noles and spend time with her family, husband, Matt, and their two vivacious kids, Austin and Ansley. For the past 11 years, Nicole has worked for Florida Gulf to Bay Anesthesiology at Tampa General Hospital as a Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetist (CRNA). Nicole is always encouraging new members to “Soak it all up and enjoy!” Having served as the League’s Community Vice President and Membership Vice President, Nicole believes there is no better place to try new skill sets and to develop your potential.

“Try and have a little fun today!” That’s the approach 2014-2015 Membership Vice President Suzy Mendelson takes at life. It’s a quote Suzy’s grandmother used to say as she taught her the importance of being an independent woman and giving back to your community. Suzy has been giving back since she joined the League in 2002. Her most rewarding placement was Finance Vice President where she worked with the League’s largest fundraisers, Holiday Gift Market and Cookbook. That year, HGM had a record setting year — surpassing 13,000 attendees! Suzy is a graduate of Florida State University and has been with her employer, The Elan Group, since graduation. This year on the Executive Board, Suzy is looking forward to focusing on membership needs and how to better serve our members. Suzy loves to spend time at home with her husband, Mark, and their son, Max, especially when they cook together.
Laura Everitt, 2014-2015 Secretary, is looking forward to gaining a greater understanding of the League’s decision-making process and shaping the future during her time on the Executive Board. Laura began her League career in Charlottesville, Virginia in 1999 where one of her most rewarding placements was helping women out of prostitution and human trafficking situations. She believes the League’s history and previous accomplishments allow us the opportunity to be invited to the table where many key community programs are shaped. With a Masters in Urban Planning and a law degree from the University of Virginia, Laura’s leadership placements have ebbed and flowed as her career demanded. Her undergraduate degree, also from UVA, is in environmental science. She currently works for Tindale-Oliver & Associates, a consulting firm, where she is an Associate Director on a Transit Services team overseeing long-term planning projects. Laura is driven, funny, and oddly proud of the fact she doesn’t own a television.

2014-2015 Treasurer Katie Cappy became active in 2004. She has continued to look for ways to increase her role in leadership positions within the League. She was humbled during her placement as chair of Food 4 Kids; amazed at the number of children who go to school ill-prepared to learn because they lack basic needs. An advocate for change, Katie is proud to be in a leadership position in an organization that is as thoughtful and diligent as the League in maintaining its excellence in community projects, member satisfaction, its financial future, and legacy. Inspired by the leaders who came before her, Katie believes the League has maintained its determination and grit by taking on such important issues as Human Trafficking and making sure we are seen as a true community collaborator. A graduate of Florida State University with a degree in Early Childhood Education, this wife and mom encourages new members to step out of your comfort zone and learn new things about yourself.

A CONVERSATION WITH DADA GLASER — SUSTAINER PRESIDENT

by HEATHER TRKOVSKY

Dada Glaser, The Junior League of Tampa’s 2014-2015 Sustainer President, became an Active in the League in 1979. She shares her thoughts on the League’s living legacy and how our past can help define a future that we might not have ever predicted.

Tell me about your active League experience.

Because I worked full-time, my League placements were always things that could be done at night or on Saturdays. I have to admit that I did not have any significant leadership positions as an Active, but I was inspired by the amazing women leaders I saw before me. My League experiences were very hands-on; I danced in a Junior League troupe for various nursing homes throughout the city, volunteered at the H.B. Plant Museum, and staffed a Hyde Park art studio. I did stints of reading in schools and worked on various “mail-outs” from Headquarters. I was a “worker bee.” But I caught the volunteer enthusiasm and knew it would be a life-long commitment and desire.

How did your “worker bee” experience as an Active, parlay into future endeavors?

As a Sustainer, and with more confidence behind me thanks to my League experience, I moved into more leadership positions at my children’s various schools and in my neighborhood, and within various nonprofit organizations that I became involved in when my children became older. I have continued to be a “worker bee” as a 16-year Meals on Wheels driver.

What was the greatest opportunity your League experience gave you?

The League trained me, groomed me and exposed me to my community’s needs. They showed by example how to get things done. The League created in me a life-long desire to lend help, and my Mom also led me down this path. She was The Junior League of Tampa President in 1961! I believe the League has established partnerships with educational organizations to feature the digital collection of The Luminaries – the permanent collection of digital media biographies. The Luminaries – the permanent collection of digital media biographies – will be presented at an inaugural award ceremony in the spring of 2015.

To that end, The Junior League of Tampa created The Luminaries, an annual award program to showcase such outstanding individuals, as exemplified by inspiring leadership, commitment to lasting community impact through empowerment and advocacy, and achievement of prominence or distinction in a particular sphere. Yet, this leadership award program takes recognition a step further by vividly capturing and preserving the influential stories of the award recipients through the creation and distribution of digital media biographies. n April 2, 1926, twenty-two women who shared a mission of promoting voluntarism and advocacy to improve the community met for the first time. In just a month, the Tampa Service League adopted a constitution, elected Marion Partrick as its first president and welcomed 100 young ladies to their provisional year. First on the agenda for the motivated group of women was a circulating library and gift shop, located in the Crescent Apartments. By the end of the first year, the women of the League had worked 6,350 hours for welfare service agencies and netted $1,800 from a charity ball benefiting the Community Chest Drive.

During the Tampa Service League’s second year, attention was focused toward the management and partial financing of the Pine Health Preventorium, a temporary home for undernourished children and those affected by tuberculosis. With the help of the League, two wings and a pavilion for children were added to the building. But the League needed funds for other projects. In order to help raise money, Leaguers paid annual dues of $10 and a penalty of 25 cents if they arrived late to a membership meeting. Members also sold The Times, a newspaper created to share resources with the community and advertise to potential new members. The newspaper was sold for whatever others were willing to pay. After its first publication, The Times profited over $2,700.

Two years after the Tampa Service League was established, officials from the Associations of Junior Leagues of America made a visit, and granted membership into the AJLA on March 1, 1928.

“I always thought the League was the most dedicated group for the community and I’ve always admired them.”
— Adele Clark
A few months ago, I had the opportunity to sit down with Adele Clarke, who began her first year in the League in 1956. Friends who were already members of the League, along with her parents, who were active in the community, encouraged Mrs. Clarke to become a member. Because of the location of her home on Davis Island, Mrs. Clarke was able to walk to her role at the information desk at Tampa General Hospital where she has been and still is an unpaid volunteer for more than 50 years.

Mrs. Clarke recalled details from the early years of her membership that were much different than they are today. Annual dues when she entered the League were $30 and about 11 women joined her Provisional class. Back then, the names of Provisionals were kept secret from the community and the women were introduced at an annual ball. The Provisionals typically gathered at the home of another member and remained there until they were presented. Mrs. Clarke remembered one elaborate unveiling when the Provisionals entered through a side door to a stage where there was a life-size Easter basket full of eggs. The Provisionals had climbed into the eggs and popped out when their names were called.

As a Provisional, Mrs. Clarke remembers the League’s Thrift Store as a profitable money raiser. Members of the League donated their own belongings and were responsible for organizing and cleaning out the space. Storing items at the store for extended periods of time was difficult, as air conditioning was not yet standard. Also at this time, efforts of the League were focused on a school that utilized the old army buildings at Drew Field. The school still operates today on Cypress St. and is known as the MacDonald Training Center.

By the time Mrs. Clarke became an Active member, lending libraries sponsored by the League had opened at the Miraasil Hotel on Davis Island, the Tampa Terrace Hotel, the Floridan Hotel and the Maas Bros. department store in downtown Tampa. The League also operated a tea room at Maas Bros. that aided in the League’s philanthropic activities. Mrs. Clarke even worked as a model for Maas Bros. in the tea room.

During much of Mrs. Clarke’s time in the League, women were considered professional members and met during the daytime because very few women worked outside of their homes. Typically, members spent one day each week working for each board on which they served. During one year, Mrs. Clarke served on three different boards. Organizations around the Tampa Bay community requested volunteers from The Junior League of Tampa and later, as the organizations became established, members moved on to other projects.

Since its inception, The Junior League of Tampa has supported some of the area’s most charitable endeavors. Although the projects have changed over the years, the mission to promote voluntarism and improve communities through effective action and leadership has remained the same. As Mrs. Clarke reminded, “I always thought the League was the most dedicated group for the community and I’ve always admired them.”

Adele Clarke began her JLT career in 1956. She joined because she felt the League was the most dedicated group in the community.
Once the school opened, members of The Junior League of Tampa (JLT) continued to challenge the status quo to ensure that all children in Hillsborough County received the education that they deserved. Junior League members served as the first teachers at the preschool and funded numerous programs for the MacDonald Training Center (MTC).

JLT continued its intensive commitment in the development and growth of MTC for the next 25 years. By the mid 1970’s, the federal government passed the Education of All Handicapped Children Act, a law requiring states to establish free public education for all students in order to receive education funding. Since students with disabilities were now able to attend public schools, the need for JLT women who served as teachers was no longer needed, and the League assisted the Center in its transition into an independent nonprofit agency.

Rita Hattab, the current Director of Development at MTC, credits JLT with “strong vision, dedication and commitment which carried the ball for advancement for children with disabilities.”

The Junior League of Tampa has always been commended for paving the way for social change. The organization’s involvement in founding the MacDonald Training Center is just one of many examples of how JLT has consistently been a pioneer.

Today, the MacDonald Training Center continues to lead the way in service to people with disabilities. MTC’s mission is for the people it serves to have independence and the opportunity to make their own decisions about where they live and work. The MacDonald Training Center has established several unique partnerships with local businesses through its business to business program. The center is currently the exclusive packager of SUNPASS Transponders for the State of Florida which is a “great source of pride for the people we serve and our organization,” notes Hattab. “Skills learned through the steps of packaging the transponder continue as the hallmark of our innovative ‘Empowering People, Inspiring Change’ (EPIC) curriculum.” The skills learned through this program include timeliness, dependability, attention to detail and conflict resolution, which allows MTC participants to grow personally and professionally.

The center also provides residential services giving members the opportunity and resources to make their own decisions about where and with whom they live as well as paying their own bills. These employment and residential services truly make a huge difference in the lives of many and allows adults with developmental disabilities to live independently in their own homes.

Jim Freyvogel, President/CEO of MTC, is extremely proud of the strides MTC has made for the lives of people with disabilities, and in changing the way in which the world perceives them. However, there is still a long way to go. He encourages others to continue to put disabilities aside and to come together to change the world. He is grateful to The Junior League for its unwavering support and knows that, together, we can continue to shatter barriers and make progress for people with disabilities.
As I rang the doorbell of Betty Wood’s beautiful South Tampa home, I was excited and nervous. Betty answered the door in a gorgeous pink blazer and matching trousers, accompanied by a welcoming smile and cheery disposition. She invited me in and we immediately started talking. The quaint house was decorated with memorabilia of Betty’s life and sprinkled with pictures of family members and friends.

I instantly clicked with this spunky woman. Betty is a legacy among fellow Junior Leaguers. After being accepted into the League in 1957, she hit the ground running. With an exceptional heart for the organization, fun-filled spirit, and passion for people, she is one of the most wonderful people I have ever had the pleasure to meet. Betty has whole-heartedly enjoyed her membership in The Junior League of Tampa and has witnessed decades of growth within the League. Her dedication to the League brought an unexpected honor in 1999 when she was named Sustainer of the Year.

Through our entire conversation, Betty laughed, smiled, and was clearly proud of her stories as a League member. The telephone rang several times during our chat, with friends inviting Betty to dinner. I was impressed and a bit surprised at how much she still likes to go out and take part in events. At one point Betty got out of her chair and said, “I don’t want to be caught sitting in a nursing home playing Bridge, I want to be out where the party is at!” I loved her attitude and pizazz!

Betty’s list of accomplishments is an article in itself, and includes: Chairman of the Placement Gala, Provisional Ball, Transfer, Theater, and Hospitality committees. She has served on numerous committees and did so with the notion that, “you get what you put in.” Outside of the League, Betty is on the H.B. Plant Museum Board of Directors and an active Chiseler. She has been involved with and helped raise millions of dollars for organizations like Metropolitan Ministries, United Way, American Red Cross, Easter Seals, the University of Florida, Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, and The Spring. Her life story could easily be titled “How Volunteerism Became a Career.”

Betty’s lust for life is infectious and has prompted her family to not only support her in her endeavors, but has also inspired them to follow in her footsteps. Her biggest supporter was her late husband, G. Pierce Wood, who accompanied Betty to each of her engagements at the League, followed by her son, George, and daughter (a former Junior League President) Betsy Wood Chambers. Betty was glowing as she reminisced about all of the fun she had when Burdines (now Macy’s) gave her the position of Special Events, Community Affairs, and Fashion Manager for the West Coast of Florida. Even though her degree was in Education and not Fashion, she was in her element. Today, Betty is highly recognized and sought after in the community. From motivational speaking, to board memberships, to volunteer organizations, she has done it all.

Betty is a huge advocate for supporting the younger generations and takes a particular interest in the provisional classes each year. Betty encourages Sustainers to never lose their spark for the League. The Junior League is a commitment for life in Betty’s eyes, and she encourages the Sustainer class to be just as involved as they were as Actives. Betty’s passion is truly one-of-a-kind. She invited me back for tea time and I plan to visit her soon.

Betty gave me several pieces of advice during our visit including one that reminded me again of Betty’s firecracker personality, “Don’t whine and complain about things that you sign up for, and don’t ever quit the League.”
A History of Fundraising & the Holiday Gift Market

by TARA DILLON

Since 1926 when The Junior League of Tampa was founded, the mission has been simple: to promote voluntarism, develop the potential of women, and improve communities through effective action. But having a mission was just the beginning. Our twenty-two founding members set out to make a difference, and to do so, they needed a plan. Fundraising would become a vital piece of not only the success of the League, but also its history and traditions. To understand how our major fundraising efforts have grown over the League’s 88-year history, I set out to talk to the best sources – Sustainers. Sarah Jane Rubio, Joy Bell and Anne Clark are three Sustainers who have been with the League since the early 1960’s. I listened as they reminisced on their sixty years of service in the League. Their stories helped draw a clearer picture of how the League’s fundraising projects have evolved from the very first charity ball in 1926, to our current Holiday Gift Market, and everything in-between.

The Charity Ball
On December 20, 1927, the League set out to plan for its first major fundraising project, a charity ball to benefit the Community Chest drive (which would later be known as the United Way). The event was organized by the Entertainment Committee, chaired by founding member Willie Carter Blake. Admission to the event was $10 per couple and although the price was steep, equivalent to about $120 today, the ball managed to bring in $1,800, a huge accomplishment given the declining economic state of the city at the time. The charity ball would evolve between the 1940’s through the 1960’s and include the addition of yearly galas.

“The League put on a series of galas and the first ones that I remember were right after I joined the League in 1951,” remembers Joy Bell. A decade later, Anne Clark was chair for one of the first themed galas which promoted the arts and fine music in Tampa. It was held at the Cuban Club in Ybor City and featured entertainment by an up-and-coming opera singer, who would one day be a mainstay at the Metropolitan Opera. “I was in charge of the first themed gala and we brought in Beverly Sills, who turned out to be a very famous opera singer,” explained Anne. “We organized the event and sold tickets, which topped out at $15.”

“Back then, we held a New Members Gala once a year and introduced the new League Provisionals,” added Sarah Jane Rubio. “The event was considered a big deal and tickets were in high demand by members of Tampa society. It was one of our best fundraisers.”

Circulating Library and Tea Room
Other early fundraising endeavors included the Circulating Library and Tea Room. Despite having to change locations multiple times, the Circulating Library was successful in raising funds. Each League member was required to buy a membership for $2.44 or donate a new novel. “The Circulating Library was originally at the Marisol Hotel and then moved to the Masa Brothers Department Store,” recalls Sarah Jane. “I remember going there in the early days with my mother, who was one of the founding members of the League.” At the Tea Room, you could get a light lunch for 50 cents and for a quarter more, you could add dessert. The Tea Room was popular among both League members and locals. “My father was one of their best customers,” joked Anne.

Thrift Shop
The Thrift Shop was the League’s primary source of funding from the 1930’s until it closed in 1963. It began in 1931 as a way to provide women with sewing jobs during the Depression. League members were required to donate salvaged items which were then repaired or repurposed to sell. Anne spent the majority of her tenure with the League working in the Thrift Shop, and was its chairman in the early 1960’s. “The majority of what we had in merchandising was clothing,” she explained. “But occasionally we would get a baby crib or some home goods. The year I was chair, we had a goal to make $8,000. We ended up meeting our goal that year. It was a huge accomplishment.”

Trinkets and Treasure
Trinkets & Treasures (also known as the Thrift Sale) took the place of the Thrift Shop and was held as a one-day bargain shopper’s paradise. Members collected items throughout the year and stored them in a warehouse where volunteers organized the items to be sold. Trinkets & Treasures was a great success requiring only half of the volunteers to execute and it brought in more than $7,000 in sales. “When they first opened the Thrift Sale, it was unbelievable,” remembers Joy. “People spent the night down on the street waiting in line to get in.” Trinkets & Treasures ended in 2002, after being a Tampa staple for 40 years.

Holiday Gift Market
Since 2003, Holiday Gift Market has become the League’s largest fundraiser, raising more than $1 million since its inception. Held at the Florida State Fairgrounds, Holiday Gift Market features approximately 140 vendors selling their goods during the three-day event. In 2013-2014, Holiday Gift Market had a record year, surpassing 13,000 attendees. Visitors can find just about anything - gifts, holiday décor, women’s and children’s clothing, jewelry, food and much more. There are also special events throughout the weekend including live music, cooking demonstrations, performances and pictures with Santa.

The Holiday Gift Market will be open November 7-9, 2014 and 100% of net proceeds raised by The Junior League of Tampa will support the League’s programs and community projects.

The Junior League of Tampa Endowment Fund
Leaving a Legacy...Sustaining Our Service

Launched in 2007, The Junior League of Tampa (JLT) Endowment Fund is a permanent fund established to ensure that our League is able to maintain fiscal stability and fervently pursue our Mission without being radically affected by changes in the economic climate or decreases in lifelong membership. JLT can draw interest on the fund, but it will never touch the principal of the fund. A strong endowment fund will ensure a unique revenue stream that will give the League the opportunity to pursue exciting, new opportunities or deal with unforeseen circumstances without creating an additional financial hardship for the organization or its members. All commemorative gifts support The Junior League of Tampa’s endowment.

The Junior League of Tampa (JLT) Endowment Fund

Donating to the Endowment Fund is as affordable as your next double espresso or 18 holes. To make it easier for you to support this critical campaign, your pledge of $1,000 or more to The Fund can be paid over a five-year period. For a small amount each week, you can Leave your Legacy and ensure The Junior League of Tampa is able to Sustain Our Service forever.

Leaving a Legacy...Sustaining Our Service

JLT 6 years active | Current placement: Community Projects Manager | Donation level: Patron

The word might not mean much by itself, but donors to the Annual Campaign support the programs and projects of The Junior League of Tampa (JLT). Peruse our website or read other issues of The Sandspur and the explanation is the same: Each year we ask individuals and businesses in the community, as well as our Membership, to support our Mission by donating to the Annual Campaign.

Meghan McGuire, an Active member of six years, contributes above and beyond to JLT. Meghan, who currently serves as the League’s Community Projects Manager, has been donating to JLT for five years and is a Patron, donating a minimum of $1,000 annually.

Meghan’s strong belief in the JLT Mission and how its members contribute to the benefitment of their community motivates her to donate.

“Trust an organization that can give back every dollar raised to the community,” she explains. “That, and the time and energy the JLT ladies put in really leaves a lasting impact. I want to be a part of that and support it.”

Meghan is happy to see her contribution used in several ways, including assisting with partner programs, supporting community partners or used for further training of JLT volunteers.

Not only do members contribute annually to bring JLT’s mission to life, but businesses and corporations do, as well. To make her personal contribution have an even greater impact, Meghan researched the donation policy at her employer, CA Technologies. The global corporation promotes a philanthropic spirit, and believes in helping its employees improve the quality of life in the communities where they live. As a result of that company support, CA Technologies matched Meghan’s donation of $1250 for a total of $2500 to the League.

“If you can take a few minutes to fill out the application and if chosen, just like that, you’ve increased your impact to JLT,” notes Meghan.

Participating in an employers’ matching contribution program is one of the easiest ways to increase your donation to the JLT Annual Campaign. If your company supports a community initiative, they may match your donation, either in whole, or in part. All it takes to find out whether a company offers a matching contribution is a review of its website, or asking a supervisor or human resources director.

Every dollar raised makes a difference in our community. It is a lesson Meghan McGuire has learned firsthand, and she hopes her fellow members will step up to contribute, as well.

Stories of Sustainers Impacting Our Community

Everyone has a story to tell. Stories are meant to teach us, inspire us, change us and are meant to be shared. To spotlight, The Sandspur’s theme of sharing our story, I sat down with three Sustainers to learn how The Junior League of Tampa is bound to its story of community change.

Nancy Crane
Executive Director of the Pediatric Cancer Foundation

Nancy’s love of children, health, fitness and injury prevention gave her the idea of bringing health topics to life in classrooms through an exciting, interactive learning environment for children. In 1989, Nancy, along with Junior League volunteers, started a project called More Health, Inc. This project aimed to develop hands-on lessons and materials to use in classrooms for grades K-12. Nancy took this Junior League project to Tampa General Hospital, which became the major sponsor in 1992. The curriculum is used in public and private schools, and has taught more than 2 million children how to be healthy.

Nancy went on to serve as the Foundation Director for the Tampa Bay Lightning, where she raised funds and organized events for local charities. She worked closely with the Pediatric Cancer Foundation, a charity she highly admired, and was asked to lead the organization as its Executive Director in 2009. The focus of the Pediatric Cancer Foundation is to fund research to find a cure for childhood cancers. Nancy credits The Junior League for encouraging her to take an idea, brainstorm with talented people and turn ideas into reality. She encourages women in the League to take advantage of everything the League has to offer, find your niche and discover what you love to do.

“The League gave me many opportunities,” explained Nancy. “I learned how to take a project, event or program, from start to finish and today that has served me well. I have always been very lucky to have had the opportunity to work with very talented and devoted teammates. The Junior League also introduced me to talented, bright, and focused women who had the ability and will to make just about anything they wanted to achieve, a reality.”

Wendy Garraty
Owner and Founder of Clayton Gray Home

As founder of Clayton Gray Home, Wendy uses her background in commercial and residential design to select custom and traditional pieces to create dazzling interior spaces. Clayton Gray Home searches for home décor, lighting, furniture and art to bring ideal ambiance and color schemes to any environment. Wendy says her business is driven by the energy she puts into it, and her experience with The Junior League of Tampa is no different.

“I think the League and the business are similar in that you get back what you put into it,” she said. “I love that you can be as involved with the League as time permits and the years that I did find more time, my placements turned into a full time job, which was so gratifying.”

During her time in the League, she enjoyed working with women of different professional backgrounds. Pulling together their knowledge and skill sets served her well in and out of the League, creating fundraisers, projects and events. “Working on projects and fundraisers with limited funds and help forces you to get creative and organize every step of your process,” added Wendy. "That ability has served me well in business. As a business owner, it is easy to get overwhelmed with ‘all that needs to get done’, but I make myself prioritize tasks, determine the ultimate goal and plan from there.”

Wendy’s advice to new Provisionals, as well as seasoned Actives looking to further their experience?

“Be open to taking on tasks that are out of your comfort zone. It’s the best way to grow! I think it is the duty of everyone to give back in whatever capacity they are able. I believe strongly in giving back to this Tampa Bay community which is why Clayton Gray Home does monthly fundraisers raising awareness to various nonprofits like Make-a-Wish, American Heart Association and many others.”

Renee Dabbs
Principal at The Voyageur Company

Renee Dabbs is a highly experienced marketing and business professional who excels in business development and creating sustained growth in a business. She has started non-profit, political and corporate organizations from scratch. She currently works for the clients of The Voyageur Company, a national political firm that provides campaign products and services for political candidates or causes. Renee has worked on statewide and congressional campaigns, legislative issues and ballot initiatives and has produced award winning media for diverse groups.

Renee was previously the COO of The Victory Group, a communications and consulting firm where she managed production of media, client services and operations. Before her 10-year tenure with The Victory Group, she served at Proctor and Gamble for sixteen years.

Renee’s personal mission statement is to create environments for women to be successful. She believes The Junior League of Tampa provides a safe place for women to acquire skills they can apply in their careers. She has a passion for empowering women and draws on three core elements when reflecting on how the League has helped her career and how women can expand on their experience: training, support and adventures. Renee suggests looking around the League for mentors and turning to other women for help. She has served as both the apprentice and the expert through her journey with The Junior League; learning how to fundraise and about the community, and using her corporate skills to strengthen the positions she has held in the League.
WHO’S WHO IN THE LEAGUE

Ashley is married to Ryan and is the oldest of three. Her sister, Andrea, is also a JLT member and her mother, Diane, is a Sustainer. “I vividly remember my mom dressing up in costumes to go to a Junior League party when I was little. I wanted to do that when I got older. It’s funny how certain little memories stick. Obviously, JLT is more than parties and costumes; my mom volunteered when we were little and instilled the practice of giving back at an early age.”

CAROLINE VOSTREJS | Placement: Membership & Recruitment Manager | Active: 2008

Caroline was born in Stuttgart, Germany and moved to the U.S. when she was 5 years old. She was raised in Orlando and attended the University of Florida. Caroline works at The Beck Group, a design, construction, development, and technology firm in Tampa. The firm just recently completed Ulele, the new Native-inspired restaurant in Tampa Heights along the Riverwalk.

Caroline became a Guardian ad Litem after touring Mary Lee’s House as a Provisional Liaison in 2009. She recently closed her second case. “It is such a rewarding experience, but it is also a bit difficult. You see things that no one sees. The children in our foster care system are often shuffled from place to place. They have very few adults, if any, who are advocating for them on every level – at school, at home, at daycare, the doctor’s office, etc. Their parents are often times working long hours, trying to make rent, staying on top of their medications. They spend large amounts of time at bus stops waiting for the next bus to then walk long distances to get to work. It’s a tough situation for everyone. The work that JLT does is visible through the programs and services we provide.”

ASHLEY MACALUSO HOFF | Placement: Arrangements Chair | Active: 2009

Ashley graduated from the University of South Florida with a Public Relations degree. Her first job out of college was a copywriting position at a non-profit that eventually turned into a communications and media relations role. Ashley was tasked with managing the build and launch of a new company website. “I fell in love with digital marketing! From websites to ad buying and emails to social media, digital marketing was by far my favorite task. So, I made it my career focus.”

This year, Ashley teamed with a longtime friend to become a partner at MEGA Inc. MEGA is a boutique creative and marketing agency. The company helps launch brands and create the tools a company needs to connect with their customers, meet business objectives, and seize growth opportunities for growth. “As Marketing Director I oversee the creation and delivery of all marketing strategies. I specialize in digital ad buying which has led me to work directly with Google and become Google AdWords certified partner.”

Ashley is married. This is her second year chairing a committee, last year she was co-chair of Cookbook. In her spare time, she runs obstacle course races, like the Spartan race. She has always had a love for community, even back to her days at Tampa Catholic High School, always finding a way to help fill a need. She jokes, a friend strong-armed her into joining the League. “Little did my friend know at the time the impact the League would have on me. Not only do I have a stellar organization to coordinate volunteering, I have also gained leadership training and experiences beyond what I could have ever learned at work. For every hour I have volunteered, I can truly say I feel the League has invested double that into me.”

KRISTIN INGRAM | Placement: Training Coordinator at The Spring | Provisional

Kristin relocated to Tampa a year ago. She moved from the D.C. Metropolitan area but her heart is in Charlottesville, Virginia where she lived for 10 years and earned her degree from the University of Virginia. She is a Labor and Delivery RN at Mease Countryside Hospital in Clearwater. Her official certification as an RN was in HIV/AIDS and infectious disease. Kristin is in her last year of a Doctor of Nursing Practice degree with a concentration in Public Health.

Kristin was crowned Miss Virginia in 2006 and then competed in Miss America where she placed as 3rd Runner Up to Miss America. She credits the Miss America Organization for her scholarships that paid for her two Bachelor’s degrees from UVA, her study abroad in West Africa and for helping with her current Doctoral studies program. As her platform for Miss Virginia, she dedicated her year to teaching life skills to incarcerated youth in juvenile detention centers and lobbying for better policy in juvenile justice. She likes to tell people, in jest, she spent her year as Miss Virginia in jail.

Kristin is thrilled to now be a part of JLT, “I knew even before I moved that I would pursue becoming a member of JLT. I was so impressed with the impact of The Junior League of Tampa, especially with our work in human trafficking. My mission in my career and in my life is women’s health and the empowerment of women as leaders and change-makers. Because of the caliber of JLT’s members and because of our work for women and for the community, I am so proud to finally be a Provisional!”

LAUREN BENTZ | Placement: Editor, Spur of the Moment | Active: 2013

Lauren has been a teacher for five years with Hillsborough County. She has taught Kindergartners, 4th grade and she recently served as an ELA Resource Teacher at Apolloke Elementary. Her goal is to become a mentor for first and second year teachers. “Education and children are two of my passions and I absolutely love working with both on a daily basis.”

When she’s not expanding our children’s minds, Lauren can be found running along Tampa streets. She loves the sport because it allows her to challenge herself, try to beat her own times, and get “me” time. She has run two marathons, six half marathons, and quite a few 15k and 5k races. She has traveled across the country taking her running “on the road,” running half marathons in Providence, Phoenix, San Francisco, St. Petersburg, and this June she is signed up to run in Seattle. “It is really amazing to learn about other cities by running through them!”

This is just her 3rd year in The Junior League of Tampa, but Lauren continues to take on leadership positions. She served as Special Events Coordinator for Cookbook in 2013-2014, “I absolutely love the League and I am so excited about my path so far. Best choice I made here in Tampa so far.”

Jennifer is an Assistant State Attorney in Tampa, working as the Deputy Chief of the Sex Offender Division. Jennifer prosecutes sex cases involving adult and child victims as well as child abuse and child neglect cases. She has been a prosecutor for nine years.

This married mother of a 3-year-old son, with another child due in March, has been an advocate for children in our community and works on some of the most difficult legal cases. But she goes to work each day knowing she is helping to make a very scary situation more understandable for families.

“it’s fulfilling to get to know my victims and assist them through the criminal process which to them often seems very frightening and taking it to a very rewarding to ultimately seek justice on the victim’s behalf against their perpetrators. Some days are harder than others but the victims and their families are so appreciative of the work I do which allows me to keep moving on to the next case.”

I imagine at one point or another we’ve all wondered how did this beautiful building become headquarters for The Junior League of Tampa. I know I’ve wondered. I flipped through the pages of past issues of Sandspur and poured through our archives.

For the first 38 years of the League members had no real home. They gathered in meeting places around Tampa, but didn’t have a place to call their own.

On June 8, 1959, the City of Tampa leased a piece of land that was part of Marjorie Park to The Junior League of Tampa. Tampa Mayor Nick Nuccio deeded the land to the League for $1.00. The Florida Legislature passed a Special Act authorizing the City of Tampa to transfer the property to The Junior League of Tampa. A year later, the membership of the League voted to proceed with plans for a headquarters building. The cost of construction and furnishings was not to exceed $50,000. The first savings account was called the “Housing Fund.”

The plans for this new building were drawn up by local architect Harry MacEwen. He designed a beautiful one-story, masonry block building that consisted of 4,000 square feet. The actual construction was delayed when, in 1961, League members voted to hold off on the building until The Gasparilla Cookbook was published.

On March 14, 1963, a groundbreaking ceremony was held. While construction now went into full gear, plans were underway for the interior decorations. Pale green walls with white drapes and green taffeta drape valances would adorn the inside. Mary Sue Frank, chair of the Headquarters committee gave details of how they hoped to decorate.

“The immediate foyer area will be papered in a pale green Williamsburg paper. The foyer will have (we hope) a Chippendale sofa by Kittinger, upholstered in pale gold brocade. There will be two armless Chippendale chairs, a Chippendale sofa by Kittinger, upholstered in pale gold. There will be two armless Chippendale chairs, with the seats upholstered in pale gold.”

She hoped to add “a coffee table, two small end tables, lamps, pier mirrors and other fancy touches, for a truly Southern, welcoming atmosphere.”

A year later several hundred League members and community leaders gathered at the new building and dedicated it to serve. “Our handsome building is valuable only as we put it to the use to which it has been so nobly dedicated.”

The building was a true piece of art, but League members noted “Our handsome building is valuable only as we put it to the use to which it has been so nobly dedicated.”

If only these walls could talk, what a story they would tell.
